NEW YORK. Didn't think anyone actually surfs subway trains in New York City? Turns out the dangerous pastime is alive and well.

A video posted online Tuesday shows several frightening minutes of a man holding onto the outside doors of the J train as it moves through the tunnels. According to the video, the train surfing happened Tuesday. At one point, the train came to a halt inside the tunnel and the man jumped down from the doors and disappeared through a small opening in the wall. "Surfing" or "skylarking," as it is referred to by the MTA, is illegal and can result in a $75 fine. MTA ads with the message "Ride inside. Get there Alive" are seen in many subway cars in an effort to discourage the risky riding technique.

Anthony Weiner's scandal rises anew

► Weingate rears its ugly head toward Huma — again ► New book reveals his gripes with wife's family ► But expecting couple still together

ANDREW BURTON/GETTY IMAGES

Adding insult to injury, ex-New York Congressman Anthony Weiner managed to humiliate his wife, Huma Abedin, yet again.

Yesterday, one of his "sexting" mistresses shared messages with the Daily Mail in which Weiner calls Abedin's parents "backwards thinking" and claims religious differences have burdened their marriage.

Traci Nobles, 35, a former cheerleading coach who had textual trysts with Weiner, revealed the scandalous excerpts in her new book, "I Friended You," set to be published this week.

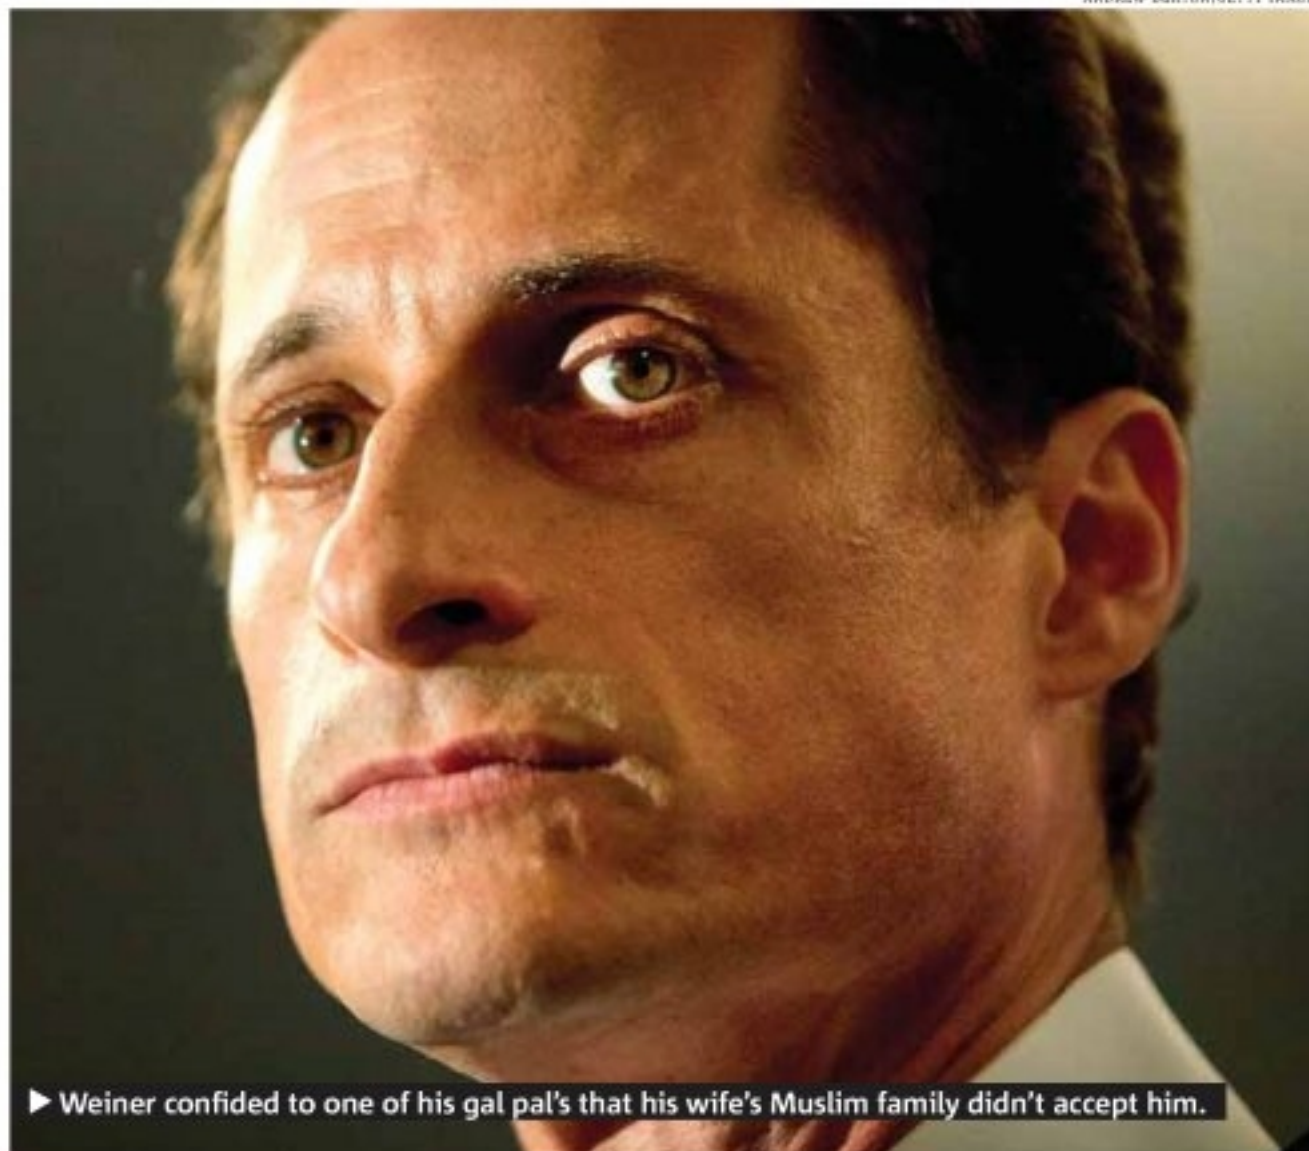

In some exchanges, Weiner complained to Nobles that her Muslim family clashed with his Jewish faith. "They just believe I should be Muslim or convert ... it makes for a lot of uncomfortable meetings," Weiner wrote. "I wish I had an escape route sometimes."

Another time he confided in Nobles: "A lot has to do with religion. Lots of restrictions and how I've never been accepted by them."

In other texts, he bragged about masturbating in the restroom of the

"It's a big office and you know that's not the only thing here that's big," he wrote, according to Nobles.

Abedin was pregnant when the scandal broke and is due to give birth to the couple's first child, a boy, on New Year's Eve. The couple has reportedly moved to the West Village.

She has been Secretary of State Hillary Clinton's aide since 1996, when she began as an intern alongside Monica Lewinsky. President Bill Clinton has referred to her as his "second daughter" and presided over her and Weiner's wedding.

Police make arrest in Brooklyn groper

► Man charged Tuesday with attacking woman ► But police warn a second sex perv may still be on the loose

Cops say they've arrested at least one of the alleged sex predators terrorizing Brooklyn, but caution women that another suspect may still be out on the streets.

Adolfo Martinez, 26, was arrested Tuesday night at around 9 p.m. at 42nd Street and Fifth Avenue in Brooklyn. Police reportedly took him in after matching him to surveillance video footage.

Cops say Martinez attacked a woman, 18, after she left a Sunset Park subway station Monday night. He was charged with forcible touching and sexual abuse.

► The latest sketch

He reportedly confessed to the crime, and yesterday, police set up lineups with other victims.

Investigators think

Monday's assault might be part of a larger pattern, where as many as 13 women since March have been attacked while walking home alone at night.

Most of the victims have been groped by a man, who then flees when they scream, but one of the women was raped in June, said police.

Police cautioned that they cannot be sure Martinez was behind every incident, as they suspect multiple men in the attacks. They released a new suspect sketch Tuesday.

The most dangerous city streets

► Watch out: The worst crosswalk can be found on Park Avenue ► List of the most dangerous intersections

EMILY ANNE EPSTEIN/METRO

► People walk across Park Avenue at 33rd Street yesterday.

The most dangerous intersection for New York's pedestrians is right smack in the middle of Manhattan: Park Avenue and 33rd Street.

According to Transportation Alternatives' analysis of crash data from 1995-2009, 163 pedestrians have been struck there in that 14-year span.

Graphic designer Rachel Johnson, 25, who lives in Murray Hill and works on 33rd Street and Park Avenue, was surprised to learn the number of accidents on her block.

"I walk across it every day — it's weird," she said.

But she said she could understand why so many people are hit at the crossing, near the entrance of the Park Avenue tunnel.

"The lights are never consistent," she added.

In order to curb crashes on the same city streets, Transportation Alternatives created CrashStat.org, an interactive map of traffic stats across the five boroughs, such as where the most pedestrians and cy-

Squinting to see whether a taxicab's "off-duty" lights are on might one day be a thing of the past.

Officials at the Taxi and Limousine Commission are considering changing the lights on top of taxicabs, taking away both the numbers and the "off-duty" sign. They would be replaced with something much simpler: If one light is on, the cab's free. If it's dark, the cab's been taken.

The new cabs would be modeled after taxis in London, which use the single-light system.

Right now, a yellow cab is available if the middle part of the light, with the cab's numbers, is lit up.

But it can be hard to decipher for New Yorkers — much less out-of-towners — whether the "off-duty" lights on the sides are also lit.

Just don't hold your breath for simpler taxis anytime soon: These new lights might not be a reality for at least another two years. TLC spokesman Allan Fromberg said they would likely be incorporated into the "Taxi of Tomorrow," a Nissan NV200, expected to hit streets in November 2013.

What do you think?

NEW YORK. In the meantime, the TLC is gathering feedback from the cabbie world, and from the people who use them. "Of course, we're also inviting input from the riding public," Fromberg said. New Yorkers are encouraged to visit the TLC's Facebook page to take a survey and suggest how the city's most iconic vehicle could be improved.

► It would take at least two days to fully evacuate Rikers Island, officials estimate.

In an emergency, could New York evacuate Rikers?

In August, as the city was scrambling to prepare for a potentially devastating hurricane, controversy arose over a decision made by Mayor Michael Bloomberg: There would be no evacuation of Rikers Island.

Officials said there was no flood risk on the island, and Irene came and went, but the incident raised a question: How would the city deal with the tens of thousands of inmates on Rikers, an island accessible by only one bridge, should an emergency arise?

"Whether they had to evacuate Rikers or not during Irene, they'll have to evacuate eventually," said

14K

Number of prisoners
housed at Rikers

Dr. Irwin Redlener at the National Center for Disaster Preparedness at Columbia University. "The key point is, do they have an effective evacuation plan? And to my impression, they do not."

City officials say there is an evacuation plan, but won't divulge details for security reasons. It may actually make more sense for most of the prisoners at Rikers to say put, say some, and ride out a storm.

"Getting tens of thousands of inmates off Rikers Island is an enormous undertaking," said Martin Horn, former commissioner at the Department of Corrections.

An evacuation would take, at minimum, 48 hours to carry out, he estimates. That led the DOC to conclude that a "defend in place" plan is the most viable, with possible evacuation of more vulnerable inmates — the elderly and ill, or expectant mothers.

Is Rikers in a flood zone?

NEW YORK. Only one facility at Rikers is in Zone C, the lowest level of flood risk, according to the city. In that facility, inmates and staff assigned to the first floor would be relocated to higher floors in the jail, or moved temporarily to other facilities on Rikers Island, jail officials said.

The rest of Rikers, on 96 acres nestled in the East River between Queens and the mainland Bronx, is at no risk of flooding, according to the city's Office of Emergency Management. An exception is the narrow outer perimeter of the island, where there are no jails.

LaGuardia also an issue

NEW YORK. At any given time, Rikers is equipped with enough fuel and food to self sustain for at least seven days, said Horn. "My worst fear always was something at LaGuardia," he added, referring to Rikers' proximity to the airport. "My worst-case scenario was some sort of explosion, and fumes drifting over." CITY LIMITS

Error: BlackBerry outages spreading

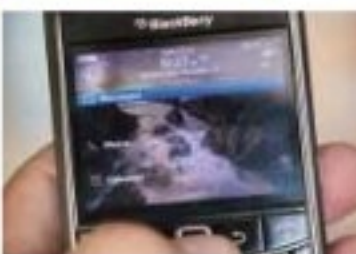

- ▶ Millions of customers across four continents affected
- ▶ Browsing, messaging, e-mail spotty or unavailable

A three-day disruption of BlackBerry services spread to North America yesterday, frustrating millions of users of the Research In Motion smartphones and putting more pressure on the company for sweeping changes.

RIM advised clients of an outage in the Americas and said it was working to restore services as customers in Europe, the Middle East, Africa and India continued to experience patchy e-mail delivery and no access to browsing and messaging. There were no reports of disruptions elsewhere in Asia.

The disruption, the worst since an outage swept North America two

The problem

The company linked the disruption to a failure in its message routing infrastructure that it was addressing. "The messaging and browsing delays ... were caused by a core switch failure within RIM's infrastructure," it said. "As a result, a large backlog of data was generated and we are now working to clear that backlog and restore normal service."

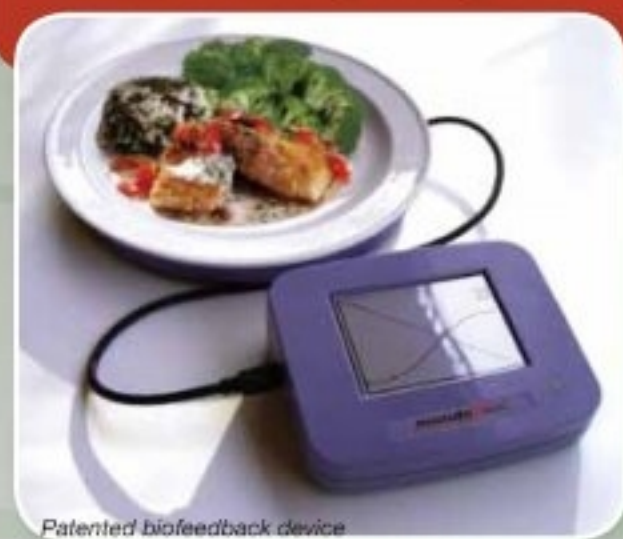

years ago, is likely to fuel calls for a management shake-up and a possible sale or split of the company, which has failed to keep pace with Apple and other rivals in a rapidly changing market.

"It's a blow upon a bruise. It comes at a bad time," said Richard Windsor, global technology specialist at Nomura.

"One possibility could be that it encourages client companies to look more at other options such as allowing users to connect their own devices to the corporate server and save themselves the cost of buying everyone a BlackBerry."

Leal finally gabs about Kutcher

Sara Leal, the 22-year-old San Diego woman who claims she was with Ashton Kutcher on the night of his sixth wedding anniversary, is breaking her silence (and by "breaking," I mean "the highest bidder finally won"). "He just came up and kissed me," Leal tells Us Weekly of her introduction to Kutcher. Leal claims the "Two and a Half Men" star told her he was separated from Demi Moore. She then details a late night cavorting naked in a hot tub with Kutcher and one other woman before the pair retired to Kutcher's bedroom in the early morning. "He lost his towel and I took my robe off," Leal says. "Then we had sex." And did they use a condom? Leal says no. Apparently, Kutcher's pillow talk got political, as Leal says he quizzed her on "up-and-coming candidates," she remembers. "I said Rick Perry. He asked if I'd vote for him. I said I didn't know and he laughed. He laughed at pretty much everything I said."

Ugh. No wonder Demi wants a divorce. Not only does he cheat on her and not use a condom (For shame, Ashton! For shame!), but the upcoming presidential election is his go-to subject for pillow talk. My eyes can't roll any harder.

Hilary Swank parties in Chechnya

Don't Seal, Hilary Swank and Jean Claude Van Damme have enough money that they don't have to accept cash from a dictator? Apparently not. The stars were paid millions to attend a concert held on the 35th birthday of Chechnya's leader, Ramzan Kadyrov, who has been accused of rights abuses, including murder, per The Associated Press.

"Ramzan Kadyrov is linked to a grim record of abuse," says Hugh Williamson of the Human Rights Watch. "When stars get paid to turn up to party with (Kadyrov), it trivializes the suffering of countless victims of human rights abuses."

Swank wasn't forced to wear an Islamic head scarf, even though Kadyrov has forced his female citizens to do so. (He has also publicly approved honor killings of women). At the event, she said she liked the Chechen government's "passion to make peace."

And here I thought Sara Leal selling her Ashton sex story to Us Weekly was distasteful.

► Checking in with some of Hollywood's biggest names to see what they've been up to — in their own words, in 140 characters or fewer.

Today, Ashton Kutcher is making nice with Demi Moore, Lady Gaga is getting a warm welcome, Bill Maher has seen it all before, and Sarah Silverman wants some rhythm.

► @aplusk: @mrskutcher good luck tonight! you should be proud

► @ladygaga: Just landed in London! Judas playing on Radio 1 the minute I turn it on! Thank u!! Missed the UK.

► @billmaher: Is there anything stupider in the whole world than newspaper cartoons of recently dead famous people meeting god in heaven?

► @SarahKSilverman: I feel like there's not enough music in the streets lately

Talking points

Who is DiCaprio dating?

While Leonardo DiCaprio has been linked to 21-year-old Australian model Alyce Crawford since his split from Blake Lively, reports from Australia suggest he's actually spending time with more than one model. Australia's Daily Telegraph, which reported on DiCaprio and Crawford's rumored canoodling, also says the "Inception" star is seeing model Kendal Schuler, 20, while in the country to film "The Great Gatsby." The two had previously ► Jolie is seen visiting with children in Libya.

Jolie goes to Libya

Though she usually can't make a move without paparazzi knowing it, Angelina Jolie made a secret trip to Libya this week, reports Reuters. "I have come to Libya for a variety of reasons, to see a country in transition at every level," Jolie said in a statement. "I will be meeting with officials from all sides, but above all listening to the local people in the street. I am here to express solidarity with them." She visited the country under her role as an ambassador for the United Nations refugee agency.

met in Los Angeles. But a source tells People magazine that the reports aren't to be trusted. "Leo is shooting 'Gatsby' and that's about it," the source says. "The gossips are on overdrive. They have linked him to half of Australia at this point."

Ozzy's to be a grandfather!

It's a big month for Jack Osbourne, as his fiancée, Lisa Stelly, is pregnant with their first child, he told Piers Morgan in an interview, meaning shock rocker Ozzy will soon be a grandfather. "I'm excited," Osbourne said. "I'm a little nervous." Osbourne and Stelly announced their engagement two weeks ago.

3. Despite failing to win any awards, Young Jeezy and T.I. rocked the house at the 2011 BET Hip Hop Awards ceremony at in Atlanta on Tuesday.

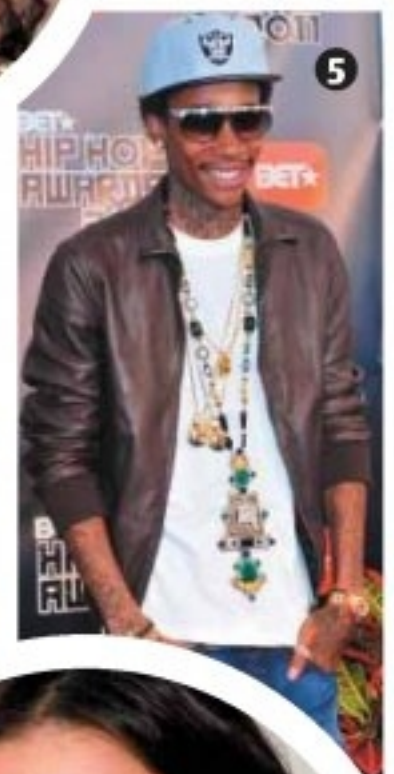

4. Busta Rhymes won big at the BET Hip Hop Awards, bagging four major awards — including Best Video and Perfect Combo Award for his collaboration with Chris Brown and Lil Wayne on the megahit "Look At Me Now." Lil Wayne went on to win Best Live Performer and Lyricist of the Year.

5. Wiz Khalifa also attended the BET Hip Hop Awards, where he took home awards for Rookie of the Year and Track of the Year for "Black and Yellow."

5 Reasons to go to the movies this weekend

2 'The Big Year' Jack Black, Steve Martin and Owen Wilson play three competitive birders who take on the challenge of seeing as many species of North American birds as they can in one year.

3 'The Thing' The thing with "The Thing" is that it's not exactly a remake, nor is it a sequel. "The Thing" is a prequel to the 1982 film starring Kurt Russell, which was a remake of "The Thing from Another World" from 1952. And even if you get all the things confused, expect the new one, co-starring Mary Elizabeth Winstead, to leave you spooked.

PARAMOUNT PICTURES

1 'Footloose' The 1980s classic starring Kevin Bacon gets an update. Yes, dancing is still banned in an entire town, but director Craig Brewer's take on what could've been even worse than "Step Up 3D" is much smarter than it looks.

4 'Real Steel' A movie about boxing robots sounds like something a couple of studio executives came up with after a few too many — but yes, it's real, it owned the box office last weekend and Hugh Jackman stars in it.

5 'Ides of March' George Clooney directs and stars in this political thriller based on the celebrated Broadway play "Farragut North." It's about an ambitious political strategist (Ryan Gosling) who finds his integrity challenged by a cynical electoral system during the Democratic primaries. Backs will be stabbed — very, very nice-looking backs at that.

Hoop dreams

► Don't fret! ► There are plenty of ways to get your fill of basketball gaming while the NBA's off-duty

Just because there's an NBA lockout doesn't mean you can't enjoy heart-dribbling basketball action. Just turn on your video game consoles and show the bigwigs a thing or two.

'NBA JAM: On Fire Edition'

Console: 360/PS3

Company: EA

Grade: 00000

The NBA Jam series isn't a basketball sim. It's a crazy, and often absurd, dunking contest populated by bobble heads. Any game that allows you to play as Sarah Palin or the Beastie Boys surely isn't too concerned with realism. Still, there is plenty of great arcade fun to go around, and this latest installment is no different.

► Wilt Chamberlain sinks a basket in "NBA 2K12."

'NBA 2K12'

Console: 360/PS3

Company: 2K Games

Grade: 00000

Gamers weaned on "Madden" have learned to expect only minor changes to each year's iteration of their favorite sports titles. With that logic, "NBA 2K" has done enough work to last through 2015.

2K Games must have given their laurels to Marv Alpert, because while "2K11" was great, "2K12" is pretty much the best basketball game ever made.

Every fiber of this game is exponentially better than "2K11." Last year's edition let you complete challenges as Michael Jordan. Now you can complete challenges as Wilt Chamberlain, Larry Bird and tons more classic dribblers. The attention to detail shines in the franchise mode, the many online challenges and, obviously, the game play itself. You'll be hard pressed (get it?) to play a better hoops sim in the foreseeable future.

Fashion month in review

► Four cities, three weather systems, 308+ runway shows and countless glasses of Diet Coke later, the spring/summer '12 shows are finally over

► Gucci

Flaptastic

The '50s wasn't the only decade to make a comeback for spring. Ralph Lauren, Marc Jacobs, Etro and Gucci all served up fantastical flapper collections with one key element that is sure to trickle its way down to the H&Ms and Zaras of the world: the drop-waist dress.

► Alexander Wang

Sporty chic

Designers such as Alexander Wang, Stella McCartney and MaxMara showed athletic-inspired lines complete with perforated leather, high-performance knits and enough mesh to outfit an entire BMX team.

Sweet and pretty

Just when you were beginning to get used to fall's kinky fetish wear, the fashion pendulum swung the opposite way for spring. Chanel, Louis Vuitton, Valentino and Givenchy are just a few houses that turned out the kinds of feminine, universally appealing dresses that both your mother and homegirl would approve of. Think shimmery, ethereal dresses that resembled oyster shells and lace frocks the color of lemon drops. The trick will be figuring out how to wear all the pastels without looking like an overgrown 15-year-old.

► Louis Vuitton

Back to Africa

The use of African prints for spring/summer collections is hardly new. But this season, the trend seemed to reach a tipping point with Burberry Prorsum, Donna Karan, Michael Kors and Alberta Ferretti — among a long list of others, all showing prints that were inspired by the continent in some shape or form.

Protests still dominating

RE: "PUSH BACK AGAINST PROTEST": You gotta love the level of discourse when people protesting a 1 in 10 unemployment rate are repeatedly told to stop being lazy and get a job. AARON MINER, BRONX

When I consider the pointlessness of the "Occupy" demonstrations, I have to wonder what's really going on. In the novel "1984," the regime would secretly organize dissidents in order to entrap potential opponents. Has free speech become a tool? WALTER ZIOBRO, JR., VIA E-MAIL

The "1 percent" say they are just hard-working Americans, but how many laws did they break and lives did they ruin to get there? The rich think it's so great to be poor; I think everyone needs to spend a night on the street to see just how bad it is. The "1 percent" need a reality check. ETHAN MUELLER, VIA E-MAIL

For those of you complaining about the protesters, you make it clear that you have no idea how lucky you are. It's obvious that you have no concept of how difficult it is to get a decent job or to pay for an education. The protesters are contributing to our society by encouraging change within a system that is not working. TARA WILLIAMS, VIA E-MAIL

How ironic that Kanye West and Russell Simmons are both multi-millionaires. Nancy Pelosi has raised several hundred million dollars from the same crowd. They are all part of the "1 percent" of America who Wall Street protesters claim are not paying their fair share. LARRY PENNER, GREAT NECK

Worse than giving tax breaks to corporations is the total waste of money given to Solydra and others by Obama. Giving this money to spur green technologies is fine, but there was no accountability. JOHN ARSLANIAN, VIA E-MAIL

Dear 99 percent: I'm not sure why you fell for the liberal class-warfare misdirection. We'd be willing to leave and perhaps colonize a nearby planet. We would, unfortunately, have to take with us a few of our things: iPhones, iPads, iPods. When something "goes viral," it will have a new meaning — we will have taken modern medicine with us. Also be ready for empty cinemas, concert stadiums and sporting venues — the entertainers will be with us. Last, we will naturally be taking with us the roughly 40 percent of total income taxes that we pay. Sincerely, the "1 percent." JESSE ALDOUS, VIA E-MAIL

Build the perfect cocktail

► Master mixologist Nick Mautone shows us how to serve more than Prosecco at our next party ► Wow your guests with some savory herb drinks and fancy salt floats

When we first met Grey Goose's U.S. ambassador Nick Mautone at the brand's Blue Door series in the Hamptons, he was shaking up sunny, farm-to-table cocktails. But now that fall's here and we're about to hit cozy house-party season, we checked in with the master mixologist for tips on how to make a mean cocktail from the comfort of our kitchen.

Find your balance: "The first and most important tip is to make your cocktail balanced," says Mautone. "What I mean is if you use too much lemon juice and not enough simple syrup or agave, the drink is going to taste highly acidic and it won't feel refreshing — it'll bother your stomach. It's really about the right balance of alcoholic strength, acidity and sweetness." And although there's no exact ratio, Mautone imparted to us an old saying for a classic

Trends

► Savory herbs: "One of my favorite trends is the use of savory herbs in cocktail making. It's something I've been doing for a long time, and I'm glad to see it take hold — whether it's the use of sage, rosemary, thyme," says Mautone.

► Wood-aging cocktails: "This is a minitrend we're working on. You take a cocktail like the Negroni and putting it into a small barrel and let it sit for a couple of days and then serve it at a party."

recipe: Two parts strong (that's alcohol) one part weak (which would be a cordial or something similar) one part sour (lemon or lime juice) and one part sweet (simple syrup or agave). "Try to follow the recipe as close as possible, and adjust according to your needs," he says.

You can't bruise the gin: "You can't shake or stir a drink too much," says Mautone. "Most people give it one or two jiggles and then they go 'Gee, this doesn't taste as good as the bar or restaurant I had it at.' You need an appropriate amount of dilution in a cocktail, the amount of water from melted ice really does make a difference. So stop being lazy — put a little muscle into it."

Use good ice: When throwing a big party, we all hit up the grocery store for bags of ice. But if you're having a smaller affair, impress your guest with perfect, shiny cubes. "Get a bunch of ice trays and fill them with hot tap water," instructs Mautone, "which will freeze slowly and therefore freeze very clear." And if you're feeling ambitious for your bigger events? "Pop your ice out of the ice tray, put them in a Ziploc bag and do multiple rounds."

Drink this!

Grey Goose
Wise Old Sage

- 1½ parts Grey Goose La Poire flavored vodka
- 1 part agave nectar or simple syrup
- ½ part Canton ginger liqueur
- ½ part lime juice
- 4 fresh sage leaves

► 4 slices of cucumber

Directions: In the bottom of a cocktail shaker, place syrup, sage and cucumber. Muddle thoroughly. Add ice and the remaining ingredients. Shake vigorously until the outside of shaker is frosted and beaded with sweat. Double-strain into a glass and garnish with sage or cucumber.

Expert tip:

► Nick Mautone

Play up flavors

Margaritas aren't the only drinks deserving of salt. "Take a thin slice of cucumber and float it on top of your drink and sprinkle it with some smoked salt. Then it will gently infuse and flavor the drink without being overpowering."

Beating around the Bush

► Gavin Rossdale on overcoming the dwindling crowds and the challenges of a solo career ► Now that the band is rocking again, he doesn't wanna come back down from this cloud

Gavin Rossdale is on his tour bus, heading towards Grand Rapids, Mich. It would be tempting to say something about him being on the road again, but really, despite becoming a husband (to No Doubt's Gwen Stefani) and father, the Bush frontman never really got off the road. His post-Bush band, Institute and solo dabbings saw him performing, just not as much as in Bush's heady '90s heyday.

"I never really stopped being out there — I just operated on a different plane," Rossdale tells Metro. "It was a different atmosphere from doing my heavy rock band to my big ballad solo career."

That is, things got smaller. To paraphrase a line from the rock mockumentary, "This is Spinal Tap," he found that his appeal "becoming more selective."

"The whole thing was quite troubling," Rossdale muses. "It always felt I was in the right place doing the wrong thing. But, if you take away the commercial side — obviously, it didn't do as well as Bush — it was really rich, musically. I worked with so many people who were so experienced. I had to take it on the chin: This isn't going to be successful, don't worry about it."

With Bush reconvened — joining Rossdale and drummer Robin Goodridge are new members Chris Traynor and Corey Britz — and a new album, "The Sea of Memories," released last month, things have clicked back into place.

"Now I'm doing this it feels so brilliant," he says.

Is the '90s revival upon us?

"The Sea of Memories" picks up where Bush left off with anxious modern rock. "Bands become soundtracks to your life," says Rossdale. "When bands break up, everyone loses a little bit. We don't want people to stop; it says to us, 'Yeah, sorry. Everything fades.' When bands reform, everyone gets the sense of rejuvenation, 'Yeah! The party's still going!'"

"This is exactly where I should be, doing exactly what I should be doing, exactly who I should be doing it with. That doesn't happen often, does it?"

Il Bagatto

Neighborhood: Lower East Side

The scene: Very chill Italian restaurant that has a homey, authentic Italian feel, but is run by one of the coolest Dominicans (Julio Pena) in the city. Food upstairs and a hype DJ downstairs, best of both worlds.

What goes down: I like to go there because it feels like family but you're

Why you want to "Make It" here: Best time to go is around 10 p.m. for a late dinner. I can stay and drink all night with Julio — love the grilled calamari, it's always a special. METRO

Take a trip to France without leaving NYC

► The Carlyle's chef Jacques Sorci on truffles and doggy bag appeal

The French Alps are known for unparalleled sightseeing, world-class skiing and exceptional food and drink. So it's no surprise that a native of this fabulous region, Jacques Sorci, was tapped to take the culinary reins at The Carlyle, a Rosewood Hotel. Sorci, who was most recently executive chef and director of Food and Beverage at The Ritz Carlton in Battery Park, spoke to us about his plans for The Carlyle.

How did your experiences in Europe shape your cooking in America?

I was very fortunate to work in a family-owned place right out of cooking school where doing less than a stellar job was never an option. The owners were such great leaders in the sense that they knew how to ignite the flame in each and every one of their employees. We all cared about each other and about the well-being of our customers. That attitude stayed with me ever since. What do you like about cooking in hotels as opposed to restaurants?

I like the diversity of the operation. No day ever resembles another. We see people at their best, whatever it is for.

What's your favorite dish to cook on the menu?

I like them all. The Lobster Thermidor is one of my favorites, though.

Which of your fall offerings are you most excited about?

The white truffle menu. It is right around the corner and white truffle fragrance compares to nothing else.

What meal would you cook to impress a date?

Paella ala Valenciana. It is extremely flavorful, requires strong skills to be executed perfectly and is quite a bit of work. It also allows for a "doggy bag" so she'll still think of me tomorrow.

"After 2 weeks, my blood sugar went from 180 to 120 and stayed there!"

Breakthrough "Antioxidant" Diabetic Drink Hailed 'A Miracle'

Naturally improves blood sugar, cholesterol, circulation, energy and more in as little as 2 weeks!

"I've been a diabetic for 48 years, my quality of life has been restored!"

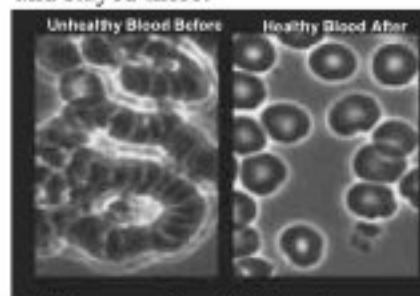

What part of your diabetes would you like to see 'go away'? Are you plagued by weight gain and food cravings, high and low blood sugar levels, mood swings, low energy and constant fatigue, poor circulation, vision problems, intermittent pain or aggravating bouts of brain fog or memory lapses?

There is good news and it comes in the form of an effervescent drink called OPC Factor, which quickly revitalizes your entire body and mind.

Better Blood Sugar!

"My doctor was amazed! I don't know what you're doing, but keep doing it!" Holistic health specialist, Dr. Charles Berg, says, "Antioxidant therapy may slow progress of impaired glucose tolerance."

Diabetic Doyle Allen is living proof. "After only two weeks, my blood sugar went from 180 to 112 and stayed there!"

Washes away blood sludge by eliminating toxins, free radicals, and even parasites!

The secret is a powerful blend of super antioxidants called oligomeric proanthocyanadins, or OPCs including powerhouses like grape seed, green tea, pine bark, and red wine extracts, along with lemon bioflavonoids, resveratrol, and 23 naturally occurring vitamins and enzymes.

No more horse pills!

Cell Essential's OPC Factor™ is the first 100% organic formula fueled by a revolutionary, high-speed Isotonic 'liquid' delivery system that mimics the body's natural pH. This provides an amazing 97% absorption rate.

Fast Results

Actual blood scans taken twenty minutes apart show how OPC Factor virtually flushes away free radicals, excess cholesterol crystals and sugar molecules in the bloodstream.

Excess sugar in your blood causes oxidation which leads to "slow sticky blood," a problem linked to neuropathy and edema in extremities as well as kidney damage and even blindness. OPC Factor greatly improves circulation promoting faster blood flow; crucial for diabetics.

"OPC Factor has helped lower my glucose levels. I sleep better and have more energy and better circulation," says Charles Leavitt.

NIH Study Proves It!

"I can feel it when I drink it," says Ken Murdock. "It gives a lot of energy."

A National Institute of Health funded "double blind" clinical study published in July, 2008, supports customer claims about energy. For diabetics, energy equals better sleep, moods, and overall balance.

"Studies have found that free radicals produce oxidation that disrupts insulin. OPC Factor works 20-50 times better than traditional antioxidants against oxidation," says Dr. Charles Berg.

Receive One-Month Free!

Try OPC Factor risk-free today and receive a free 30-day Bonus supply along with a free book, The Aging Antidote-a $20 value.

OPC antioxidants are clinically proven to boost your energy, and help restore youthful circulation, cholesterol and blood sugar levels. It's backed by a 6-month satisfaction guarantee so you can experience the short and long term results risk-free, too! Call today!

Epstein heads to Chicago

Ending one curse just wasn't enough for Theo Epstein.

The former Red Sox GM has reportedly been hired as the Chicago Cubs to fill the same role.

The deal is for five years and around $15 million.

► Jeremy Kerley will now be counted on more in the passing game with the departure of Derrick Mason.

'KERL' ROUTE

► With trade of Mason, Jets go in direction of rookie Jeremy Kerley ► Can the versatile receiver stick in the slot? ► Receiver has just three catches

Replacing a 15-year veteran with 937 receptions and more than 12,000 receiving yards now falls to a rookie fifth-round pick with three career catches to his name.

Welcome to the pros, Jeremy Kerley.

With the trade of Derrick Mason to Houston on Tuesday night, Kerley has now emerged as the Jets' third wide receiver.

After making his first-ever NFL reception last Sunday in the loss at New England, Kerley has to quickly establish himself on a team with Super Bowl ambitions.

And replace a player in Mason who, someday, could be Canton-bound.

"Camp was tough and I got through that and I felt like it helped me out," Kerley said. "So I'm definitely ready."

While Kerley is a better athlete than Mason it is a tough spot for a rookie to come in.

"What we saw on the practice field, one of those things we saw was that Jeremy Kerley has a lot of ability," coach Rex Ryan said. "At the end of the day, Houston gave us a call and we said let's go with Jeremy."

Jets GM: Trade not about complaint

Jets general manager Mike Tannenbaum was clear on Wednesday that the trade of Derrick Mason had everything to do with the player's suspect performance and nothing to do with his controversial comments following a loss to Baltimore.

"What he said after the Baltimore game had nothing to do with the decision we made last night. Obviously his performance on the field isn't where he expected it to be or where we expected to be," Tannenbaum said. "We're always going to make a decision for what's best for the team but it's based on what we thought is going to give us the best chance to win on the field." ● METRO/KD

Getting back to basics

As long as the franchise has been in existence, there have been two things associated with the New York Giants — running the ball and playing sound defense. Unfortunately, that identity has taken a blow in recent weeks.

Following last week's unfathomable loss to Seattle, there was genuine concern regarding the way the running game and how the defense's inexplicable play has allowed opponents — some mediocre — to put up big numbers on them lately. It doesn't get any easier ► Tuck says the defense is getting frustrated.

On TV Sunday

Giants vs. Bills
Oct. 16, 1 p.m., CBS2

this week, as the Bills (4-1) come charging into MetLife Stadium.

"We are not making the same errors [and] that is what is frustrating because if we were then we could just say get that guy out of there but it is different errors," defensive end Justin Tuck said. "One week it's tackling, one week it is fitting up the run and the next week it may be a defensive end cutting off a blitz and a guy getting outside."

When a defense is struggling as much as the Giants (3-2) have been, a masking agent is a strong running game that keeps that unit off the field. Unfortunately, they have yet to get that element on track.

"Well, we're going to keep hammering away at it because that is philosophically what I hold to and believe in," said Coughlin.

Cashman passes on Sox job

At the end of the month Yankees general manager will be without a contract.

But don't expect him to be looking at the now vacant Red Sox job.

"I have a job," Cashman told ESPN yesterday.

He is expected to re-sign. METRO
